Hind is a 1st Year Bac student who loves photography. Last year, she was invited to a youth conference about human rights, which was broadcast live on national TV. Before the trip, she used to think international travel would be too expensive for her family, but her school found a way to help her go. During her stay, she visited a festival where local artisans who were passing down traditional crafts welcomed her warmly. A guide told her that if young people stop learning these skills, they will disappear completely.
